

Being in Beauty: Shamanic Journeying

With Pete Bengry

May 16 – 18, 2020

The 'Introduction to shamanism and shamanic journeying' is the essential training for anyone wishing to learn shamanism and navigate the shamanic state of conscious. This ancient technique is considered to be the oldest form of spiritual healing known, dating back to thousands of years. The practice of shamanic journeying is the foundation to all healing within shamanism. From a shamanic perspective healing is achieved through the sacred partnership with ones teachers from the spirit world. This relationship enables the shaman to achieve potent and powerful healings directed by the presence and connection to their healing spirits.

Throughout the training you will learn:

- The ancient and powerful practice of shamanism
- The potent act of shamanic journeying
- The process of merging with power
- Understanding illness from a shamanic perspective
- Practice and perform a power animal retrieval
- The use of drums and percussion within shamanism

Pete Bengry is a shamanic practitioner from the United Kingdom. He teaches and performs internationally, sharing his gifts and knowledge within shamanism and healing. His journey into sound began at the age of five years and has continued to the present day. In 1996, he achieved number one status in the British music charts with the band 'Cornershop' sharing their hit song 'Brimful of Asha.' He is respected as both a healer and musician internationally and considered an adept with his work with the drum and percussion.
